The narrative is intro-duced and intestorled with coarse clang and flippan-cy, such as would bring discredit upon any public journal, and the American authorities, the American people and the suffering negrees are alike treated to a profusion of contemptuous and approbious epi-thets. The ating that has provoked this tractic very evidently the fact that an American vessel of war, and not a British one, captured the slaves, and thets. The asing that his provoked this tirade is very evidently the fact that an American vessel of war, and not a Brilish one, captured the slaves, and that the United States to versument has shown its good faith and its harred of the slave trada in the manner in which it rescued, protected and returned comfortably to their native land, the unfortunate beings when its own citizens had stolen from their hones. This is made sufficiently apparent by the closing remerks of the Times, designed, but to that acd powerless, to create dissantifaction in the minds of the American people, with the action of their government on the ground of expenditure:

All those who are in the employ of the foreign dogs must leave their employment in one month; and after one month, if they still stay with the foreign dogs, and do not return to their native villages, the elders of the villages will hand ovar their families to the antherities to be punished, as if they were the red-head rebels. And if any village ratues to they these regulations, we the Braves, will level that village and punish the offendors of the Celestial Court. All those who have blood and life ought to stare the troubles of our Emperor. These that doubt this must be treated as thieves, and every rows subject can kill them. Americans, Spaniards, and ther loreign nations are on good terms with ours. The storpage of trade is solely caused by the English and French dogs, and complisits must be made against them alone, and not us.
